

special-series

Flags that were designed by model makers for special ships, without proven historic authenticity.

1. Wasa

The flag sources are unknown.

2. San Felipe

San Felipe is one of the most beautiful ship models and is frequently built.

However, many experts doubt the historic authenticity. The ship's plans most probably originated only in the imagination of an enthusiastic maritime historian.

However, there are hints in the following book:

EL BUQUE EN LA ARMADA ESPAÑOLA

from Verlag Silex in Madrid

I.S.B.N. 84-85041-50-x

Shapes from renowned historians together with Professors, museum-directors and others.

To add on top of this according to wish the numbers 4100 and 4111 from the normal Spanish series in the necessary size.

3. Adler von Lübeck from 1567

Is the eagle of Lübeck a Karacke or Galeone?

Over here the opinions probably break up. You find from both ship types elements.

In every trap it is one of the biggest ships of his time and for model maker an interesting object. Who wants to know more, find it under the following web page:

www.deutsche-museumsverft.de/projekt00.php

There is a Pdf file with more than 80 sides for downloading.

This file contains the complete today's level of knowledge including her History over this ship.

*) Attention:
When hoisting the flag be careful not to put it upside down!

4. Flag of galleys

e.g., for the La real (more in preparation)
